Reflection

1. One of the challenges I encountered was on the menu page. I struggled to place two rows, three columns of card gallery, for user to view all of the products. I understand that this is a function bootstrap can achieve, but don't know how to achieve this effect with only html and css. After searching online I found the flexbox, which was able to solve my problem.

2. I wished the website to use more pictures and less words, because pictures are more attractive, and quicker to understand. I also wanted my users to have more freedom on the site, so I included navigation bar on top of every page.

   The main color is warm brown, to correspond with the color of cinnamon rolls, and to create a cozy feeling.
